Electric DriveWay Party!

Plug-in electric vehicles are good for our economy, energy security, and environment. They are inexpensive to operate and a joy to drive. Best of all, they are finally available to buy.

Unfortunately, most people have not only not driven one--they don't even know anybody that owns one. This is your chance to see some (we will have a Chevy Volt and a Nissan Leaf, at least—we are still looking for more), take a ride, see how to charge up, and ask questions of owners. And see some of your friends and neighbors as well.

If you want to prepare in case there is a pop quiz, you can take a look at <http://www.pluginamerica.org>.
